Logline: A philandering eco-builder pays heavily for succumbing to an irresistible gold-digger as he fights terminal illness to a dramatic and poignant conclusion.

Just imagine being told you only have days to live without treatment and that even with treatment your chances are less than 50-50. What would your reaction be? What would you do?

Join Bob as he learns he has AML, acute myeloid leukaemia, and is in desperate need of a blood transfusion so he won't bleed to death from an innocent nose bleed. The diagnosis is a complete surprise to Bob whose only complaint was tiredness and unexplained bruising. Join him with his band of blood brothers in an acute haematology ward where the cure is almost as dangerous as the illness. Follow his chemotherapy trail and the anguish it inflicts on friends and family. But that's not Bob's only problem he also has a jealous and increasingly erratic wife and conniving mistress to deal with.

A dark adult tale of greed, hypocrisy, blackmail and betrayal overcome by hope and commitment based on true life medical experience with vulnerable characters and black humour. Simple everyday locations and no special effects. Location independent but sensitive to national medical practices.
